

Read, , Look, Write

Read the whole poem through once.

Read the poem again, but STOP when you get to the end of each stanza.

Look for the following features to help you take a close-up look at the text:

- Pick out words or phrases the author used to set the mood or create an image in the reader's mind.
- Find repeated phrases or words.
- Note the words that helped you understand the main idea of the stanza.

Write or draw what the stanza is saying. (Reread the stanza if needed).
